A winery to watch, San Guglielmo is located to the west of Montalcino, tucked in beside Castello Romitorio and Corte Pavone. Surrounded by forest, the 1.5ha vineyard sits between 440 and 470 metres on well draining Galestro soil. Its fresh locale is evident in the 2018, just the third vintage of Brunello to be released from this estate. Bright cherry comes across as straightforward at first but is joined leisurely by accents of stone, flint, forest brush and orange peel. Clean and succulent with an energetic flow, its understated powdery tannins provide enough to chew on for the next seven years or so.
